2027 Equine Medicine Fellowship

Anglesey Lodge Equine Hospital is now accepting applications for our 2027 Equine Medicine Fellowship.

We are looking for enthusiastic equine vets with a strong interest in neonatology, critical care, and internal medicine. Previous referral hospital experience and/or experience managing sick foals is essential.

The successful candidate will gain extensive hands-on experience caring for over 150 ICU foals each year, alongside a wide range of medical conditions in adult and neonatal patients. This is a practical medicine position, with increasing responsibility and autonomy throughout the fellowship. It is an excellent opportunity to develop expertise in equine neonatal medicine and prepare for a future career in internal medicine, with many previous fellows progressing to residency positions.

What we offer:

- Two 6-month seasonal positions, starting January 2027
- Possibility of extension up to 18 months
- Extensive exposure to equine neonatal and internal medicine cases
- Accommodation provided close to the hospital
- Salary will be discussed based on experience.

We are looking for candidates who are enthusiastic, professional, team-oriented, and committed to developing their clinical skills.

To apply: Please send your CV, letter of intent and recommendations to internship@aleh.ie by 15 November 2026.
