Internal Medicine Specialist

Avenel Equine Hospital

Avenel Equine Hospital is a full-service equine hospital located in the heart of Victoria's Thoroughbred breeding region. The practice offers a comprehensive on farm service to equine clients in the local area as well as intensive care and surgical services at our new purpose-built hospital.

The Culture

Our vision is to be the best at patient care, best at client relationships and the best place to work.

The Role

We are seeking a full-time medicine specialist to join our team in time for the 2023 foaling season. Our medicine department has experienced rapid growth in the last 2 years and although our busiest months are August – December, we have also experienced significant growth out of season. Our aim is to provide a high standard referral service throughout the year for intensive-care foals, colic's and other medical cases while maintaining continuity of care and efficiency in the department. You will be responsible for the ICU cases in the clinic and for client communication with support from our current medicine specialist, surgeons and hospital-based veterinarians.

This would suit someone with an interest in neonatal care and management of critical cases. You would be given training in advanced medical diagnostic procedures (ultrasound examinations, endoscopy etc.) and protocols within our hospital.

Skills and Experience

- Fully registered as a veterinarian in Victoria, Australia
- Registered Specialist in Equine Medicine
- An interest in neonatal care and management of critical care
- Prioritise and work effectively within a team.

Benefits

- Collegiate support from medicine specialist, surgeons, and experienced ambulatory/reproductive veterinarians
- Varied and interesting caseload
- Support for career development
- Potential for permanent position and opportunity for flexile part time work in sales season if requested.
